Catholic Education in the Franciscan Tradition

Have you thought about getting your associate's or bachelor's degree but thought it would take too long? Or thought you'd be too busy to add one more thing to your schedule? Think again!

The accelerated program at Neumann College, offered both on campus and online, provides opportunities to complete the degree at your convenience. Most importantly, your police training is likely to place you more than half-way to the bachelor's degree already! All of your Philadelphia Police Department training, as well as MPOETC training, can be evaluated for college credit. Completing your degree could also help you in your promotional exams. Call (610) 361-5440 to learn how.

Your personal Advisor at Neumann can help create a program that combines Neumann College credits with those from the Academy as well as from other institutions. A personal plan will map your time frame toward degree completion, so you know "up front" what lies ahead of you.

Neumann College may be the program you've been looking for. Serving adults with the accelerated degree program since 1974, Neumann College, located in Delaware County, is a fully accredited institution offering accelerated degree programs to members of the Philadelphia Police Department and its retirees.
